

As someone who flies between Israel and Florida regularly, I dread the thought of having to listen to people screaming into the cell phones for the entire flight.

I can almost guarantee you that allowing these calls is going to increase tensions on flights and lead to an air equivalent of road rage.